OBJECT ORIENTED ANALYSIS AND DESIGN DIGITAL ASSIGNMENT 2
NAME:- GARVIT KUMAR SONI
REG. NO:- 20BIT0039
SUBMITTED TO:- PROF. PRABHU J SIR

Video link:-
https://drive.google.com/file/d/1HlMpA3ZS6-Hj199KcBBcKlxQpGDwu_gv/view?usp=share_link

Software development

- Software development is the process of designing, creating, testing, and maintaining software. It involves the use of programming languages, tools, and frameworks to build software applications that meet specific requirements. An example of software development is the creation of a mobile app that allows users to track their daily water intake.

Healthcare

- Healthcare refers to the provision of medical services and the maintenance of the health of individuals and communities. It includes the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of diseases and injuries. An example of healthcare is a hospital that provides medical care to patients who require treatment for various health conditions.

Financial Services

- Financial services refer to a broad range of services provided by financial institutions to individuals and businesses. It includes banking, investment, insurance, and other financial services. An example of financial services is a bank that provides loans, savings accounts, and other financial products to its customers.

Gaming

- Gaming refers to the creation and playing of video games. It involves the use of software development tools and technologies to design and build video games that can be played on various platforms. An example of gaming is the creation of a mobile game that allows players to collect virtual items and compete with other players online.

Education

- Education refers to the process of acquiring knowledge and skills through teaching and learning. It includes formal education in schools and universities, as well as informal education through books, online courses, and other resources. An example of education is a university that provides degree programs in various fields of study.

Telecommunication

- Telecommunication refers to the exchange of information and communication over long distances through various technologies such as telephones, computers, and the internet. It includes services such as phone and internet service providers. An example of telecommunication is a telecommunications company that provides internet and phone services to households and businesses.

Hospitality

- Hospitality refers to the provision of services to guests and customers in the hospitality industry. It includes services such as accommodation, food and beverage, and entertainment. An example of hospitality is a hotel that provides accommodation and catering services to guests.

Public Sector

- Public sector refers to the part of the economy that is owned and controlled by the government. It includes services such as healthcare, education, and public utilities. An example of public sector is a government agency that provides social services to the public.

Agriculture

- Agriculture refers to the cultivation and production of crops and livestock for food, fuel, and other uses. It includes activities such as farming, forestry, and fishing. An example of agriculture is a farm that produces crops and livestock for commercial purposes.

Real Estate

- Real estate refers to the buying, selling, and renting of property, including land and buildings. It includes activities such as real estate development, property management, and brokerage services. An example of real estate is a real estate agency that helps individuals buy and sell properties.

Sports

- Sports refer to physical activities that involve competition and skill. It includes activities such as football, basketball, and tennis. An example of sports is a professional football team that competes in a national league.

Music

- Music refers to the art of creating and performing music, including vocal and instrumental performances. It includes genres such as classical, rock, and pop music. An example of music is a music band that performs live concerts and records music albums.

Fitness

- Fitness refers to physical activities that improve overall health and fitness, such as exercise and training. It includes activities such as weightlifting, yoga, and aerobics. An example of fitness is a gym that provides fitness equipment and classes to help individuals improve their fitness levels.